Classic honors cream of the crop at '08 awards event

Classic Security, a division of Alliance Building Services, recently recognized its security guards for their outstanding service and professionalism on the job.

During a ceremony at the company's midtown corporate office, the 2008 honorees, David Pegus and Matthew Gabriel, were acknowledged for their superior performance from both Classic and Alliance executive staff. Each guard received a commemorative plaque and monetary award.

David Pegus is a Fire Safety Director at the SL Green Realty Corp. owned building, 100 Park Avenue. Matthew Gabriel is the lead officer at the George Comfort & Sons owned building, 498 Seventh Avenue. Honorable mention recipients included: Kenneth Padilla, Joseph Simon, Sam Jones, Bienvenida Perez and Sharon Murphy

"It is a great feeling to be able to formally recognize the exemplary service and dedication that each of our honored officers demonstrates every day on the job, said Anne Fahy, executive vice president, Classic Security. The core of Classic Security, they are a definite asset to the company and most worthy of this recognition."

"Protecting its clients' property and tenants is a formidable responsibility that Classic Security approaches with the utmost sincerity, said Michael Rodriguez, president, Alliance Building Services. We have built our reputation on employing the best talent the city has to offer and the guards being honored today exemplify our standards."

"We are very proud of these officers and appreciate the hard work that they do. From their presence as a commanding authority to their advanced knowledge of security technology, it is their outstanding professionalism that continues to make Alliance one of the top building service providers in the

New York Metropolitan area," said Gary Green, chief executive officer, Alliance Building Services. ■
